

C-TRACK

What is it? How does it work? Can it work for me?

Do you know Jana?

She is a Trek® leader at a California megachurch. They have Awana® from Puggles through Middle school, but the youth pastor does his own thing for high school. Jana, who grew up in Awana® and achieved her Citation as a high school senior, gets the 2-18 philosophy of Awana® and wishes they would include Journey™, but that doesn't look like as if it will happen any time soon. As the Trek® year comes to an end, Jana thinks about two girls in her group, Kara and Grace. They worked through their Bible studies with a lot of enthusiasm – if only they could continue, she knew they would both achieve their Citations.

So, one Wednesday night she made an appointment with the Awana® Ministry Director and explained her feelings and why she was glad she had gone through the Journey™ curriculum herself. She told the Awana® Ministry Director that she would be willing to mentor the girls as they went through the Journey™ Curriculum, listening to their verses, and checking their Bible Studies.

Was there a solution?

Now the oldest was ready for Trek®, but their church did not have Trek® or Journey™, which made them a little sad. They liked the Biblical foundation the kids were building, and how easily the handbooks lent themselves to good discussions. Often, they would sit around the table after supper and work with their children on their sections, discussing verses and concepts.

But there was a second reason the Andersons wished their children could continue. Josh was a social worker and Christina did not make a lot of money at her part-time job designing jewelry. They knew when the kids hit college-age they would need all the financial help they could get. They were aware of the college scholarship program and knew that one of the colleges where they would like their kids to attend was on the scholarship list. Their church was the only church in town that offered Awana® – how could the children continue?

Keith King, the Awana® Ministry Director at the church right outside of town had wanted to add Trek® and Journey™ for years.

So many kids went through Awana® to the sixth grade, finishing their books and doing well, and then suddenly were put into youth group which had no correlation to what they had been learning. Keith knew that a lot of youth groups had great, solid curriculum, but his church was not one of them. The leaders, a lay couple, were big on entertainment, not wanting to bore the kids with “work.” Keith had talked with them many times -emphasizing that learning God's Word could be both fun and challenging. Kids needed to think through what they believed.

The leader half-listened as he sketched a diagram of a desired zip line he wanted to build in the woods behind the church. Keith had nothing against zip lines or youth leaders, but he did have a problem with the shallowness of what the teens were learning.

Then he got an idea – he was good friends with the director of the Sunday morning program – what if they did Trek® and Journey™ during that hour for those who wanted to continue? Maybe then they could be student leaders on Wednesday night, would that work?

Everyone in the Collins' family was an Awana® fan.

Dan and Marsha had been Co-Awana® Ministry Directors at their church down in Texas for fifteen years. Their clubs consistently won AwanaGames™, and Bible quizzing events. AwanaGrand Prix™ was the highlight of the year. Someone had even made their daughter a “Future Awana® Clubber” onesie and given it to Marsha at her baby shower. Now their kids were in middle school and high school and the family was moving to Oregon because of Dan's job.

They were excited to find a church with Awana® in their town but quickly learned that it was considered an unimportant ministry of the total church program and no one really cared whether or not kids came, much less learned their verses. The Collins prayed that they would have the opportunity to help, but did not want to push their way in. They were also concerned about their own kids – all three were heading toward their Citation, but this church stopped Awana® at the fifth grade. What could they do?

One day Megan Laramie was looking at the Awana® Website and discovered something amazing.

“Mom, please come here and look at this,” she called. Her mom was putting the finishing touches on a birthday cake. She gently laid the decorator tube on the counter and came into the living room.

“Did you know about Awana® Youth Ministries™? Awana® has programs for middle school and high school, I can keep going in my books.”

“I didn't know that Meg, but our church doesn't offer those programs so how can you do them?”

“Read this – they have a program called C-Track™ that kids can do on their own.”

“Interesting... Why don't you ask when you go to club tomorrow night? Though I'm not sure the leaders know there are programs for those age groups either.”

“This would be so cool! I thought I only had a few weeks left in Awana®, but maybe I can do it all the way through high school.”

All these scenarios (or variations of them) have been happening for years in the homes and churches where younger kids attend Awana® programs that end in fifth, sixth, or eighth grade. Up until now that meant most clubbers stopped progressing in the Awana® program. A few would contact their missionary or knew someone who knew someone who said you could do the Trek® and Journey™ Bible studies on your own.

Now with C-Track™ teens have an organized plan for continuing in Awana®.

What is C-Track?

C-Track™ is a program enabling teens to continue in Awana® even though their church does not offer a Trek® or Journey™ program. The “C” stands for Citation. Most teens who wish to continue are on track to achieve their Citation and be eligible for college (another “C” word) scholarships. (You will find a list of colleges here.)

Why C-Track™?

Most churches that end their Awana® programs after the fifth, sixth, or eighth grade years have active youth programs in place – so what is the purpose of continuing in Awana®?

A. Awana® is based on the five principles developed by Lance Latham back when he first originated the idea for a children's youth program.

Lance Latham's Five Principle:

1. Awana® is centered on the Gospel
2. Scripture memory is a key element
3. Awana® is exciting and fun
- 4. Children and youth are trained to serve
5. Awana® is built on strong leadership

Principle 4 is: Children and youth are trained to serve. Although service is part of our entire program, much of the service component (including the student leader program) is included in the Trek® and Journey™ curriculum. By discontinuing Awana® after the fifth, sixth, or eighth grade, teens miss this important part of the Awana® philosophy. C-Track™ allows teens to continue in the program and perhaps become student leaders.

B. Awana® curriculum itself is centered on the five master life threads.

Awana® is intentional about developing a biblical worldview in children and youth. Our Master Life Threads have been carefully designed, based on questions kids have about their faith during the different developmental stages of their lives.

1. Puggles®/Cubbies® – respect
2. Sparks® – wisdom
3. T&T™ – grace
4. Trek® – destiny
5. Journey™ – perspective

The life threads for middle school (destiny) and high school (perspective) take what the teens have learned and make it real and relevant to their everyday lives.

Most middle schoolers are struggling with feelings of inadequacy. Destiny helps them understand that in Christ we not only have a destiny, but our destiny is one of value.

High schoolers are preparing to make decisions which can be life-altering. By teaching them perspective in the light of a sovereign God, we help them make decisions steeped in biblical discernment.

And although each Awana® program stands alone, by dropping out of Awana® at a young age the teen misses the overall picture and does not understand how everything fits together. Two key components are omitted. C-Track™ give teens the opportunity to continue their work.

C. Awana® awards the Citation to those who achieve 10 years' worth of book completions (grades 3-12).

Many Awana® clubbers are working toward achieving the Citation Award, but to achieve this award, they need to have 10 years of book completions. When clubs stop at grade school or middle school levels, teens are not able to complete the work necessary for the Citation. By doing C-Track™, teens can continue in the program and achieve the Citation – the highest Awana® award.

D. Awana® partners with more than 40 Christian colleges and universities in a unique scholarship program.

Teens achieving the Citation Award (and in some cases, the Timothy, or Meritorious Award) are eligible for college and university scholarships at schools around the country. Many families depend on scholarships, especially in these tough economic times, and the opportunity to earn a scholarship by completing Awana® requirements is appealing. C-Track™ allows teens to continue their work and eventually be eligible for a scholarship.

Can any middle school or high school teen do C-Track™?

No.

A. The optimal situation is for a church to offer both Trek® and Journey™.

We know that many churches offer Trek®, but not Journey™. But other churches stop after fifth or six grade and do not offer either program. If the church does offer Trek® and Journey™, the teen must participate in the established program. They should not do C-track™.

B. The second option (and this should be considered before C-Track™) is for the teen to attend a Trek® or Journey™ program at a nearby church.

Many churches with Trek® or Journey™ programs welcome teens from other churches that offer the younger clubs. You can check out which churches in your area have Awana® Youth Ministries on the Awana® website awana.org. Click on Parents and then on Find Awana® in your area. You will need to enter your zip code to find churches in your area that offer Awana®. The churches should have a list of which Awana® programs they provide.

C. The third option is C-Track™. But C-Track™ is available ONLY for those teens who attend a church that has a younger club or is connected to a church that has the younger clubs (most often the church where the teen has attended Awana® in the past).

Here are some examples:

- Kate has grown up in the Awana® program at Spring Grove Community Church. The Awana® clubs at Spring Grove stop after the sixth grade, but Katie's T&T™ leader, Mrs. Wilson, has agreed to listen to Katie's verses, check her Bible studies, and keep a record of Katie's progress. Katie works as a student leader in Sparks® on Wednesday nights and so comes 15 minutes early to meet with Mrs. Wilson. Katie receives her books and awards from Spring Grove. Katie also attends the Spring Grove youth group – Bridge 912 – on Friday nights.
- Jake lives down the street from Kate and he has always attended the clubs at Spring Grove because his church does not offer Awana®.

The leaders at Spring Grove know Jake well. They know he attends a good church and his Christian testimony is evident in the way he lives his life. They agree that he can be a student leader in Cubbies® and agree to allow him to do C-Track™ through their church. He also comes 15 minutes early on Wednesdays and along with Katie meets Mrs. Wilson. Spring Grove also purchases his Bible studies and awards. Jake attends youth group at his own church when activities do not conflict, he also attends Bridge 912 at Spring Grove.

- Olivia attends a church 30 miles down the road and her church does not offer Trek® or Journey™ either, but they do have an active youth group.

Olivia does not want to attend youth group – she decides she is too busy being on the drama team, a cheerleader, and on the drill team – plus she has a full social life. C-Track sounds good to her Dad and Mom who want her doing something that has to do with church and if she would do C-Track™, she would not actually have to attend anything!

No, C-Track™ is not a substitute for a church youth group. If a church has a youth group, Awana® strongly encourages teens to attend. C-Track™ should be in addition to, not in place of, a youth group.

- William goes to a church that does not have Awana®. He found out about C-Track™ from his cousin and decided he wanted to do it.

No, you must be connected to a church that has Awana® to take part in C-track. Churches that have Awana® are registered, which allows them to order core program components. Churches also provide accountability and credibility when teens apply for college scholarships. William must get connected to a church with Awana®.

- Kayley loves little kids. When she found out some of her friends were becoming student leaders in Puggles® and Cubbies® she signed up. THEN she found out they were also doing C-Track™ even though the church did not have Trek® or Journey™. Kayley did not care about learning verses and decided doing C-Track™ was too hard – even though her friends told her it was not that difficult at all.

Kayley does need to do C-Track™ if she wants to be a student leader. That does not mean she has to finish a Bible study, but she does need to put forth effort in working through the study.

Who can be the mentoring adult?

The teen must be connected to a qualified adult who listens to verses and checks Bible studies, but who?

- A. The teen's former leader. Many C-Track™ teens are mentored by former T&T™ or Trek® leaders. There are usually adults who have encouraged the teens back when they were clubbers and are willing to continue to work with the teens as they enter Trek® or Journey™. Often it is these leaders who understand the overall goal of Awana® and the Master Life Threads upon which our curriculum is based. These leaders are familiar with Awana® and often encourage the teens to continue the program.
- B. An Awana® leader who has mentored other teens and often works with two or three C-Track™ teens each year. This person fits into much the same category as the leader above – but perhaps has not previously worked with the teen. This person has a heart to encourage teens to continue in Bible study.
- C. A Director or Awana® Ministry Director. Directors and Awana® Ministry Directors are often willing to take on the role of mentor.
- D. The Pastor. In some churches, the pastor/pastor's wife is the one working with the C-Track™ teens. This particularly happens in smaller churches where the pastor and his wife know the teens well. Sometimes this is a pastor who has been involved in Awana® in a previous church and likes encouraging the teens.
- E. The Youth Pastor. We suggest the C-Track™ teen ask the youth pastor to help him/her with the books. If two or three teens are doing C-Track™, some youth pastors meet with the teens at a specified time and have a small C-Track™ Bible study group.
- F. Other respected adults in the church. Perhaps a retired man or woman is willing to be the teen's mentor. We know of at least one church where the retired former pastor has stepped up to check books and listen to the verses of C-Track™ teens. He served as an Awana® leader for many years and has a great relationship with the teens. Or maybe you have an adult who is interested in Awana® but cannot serve in club because of a work schedule but, is willing to work with one or two teens.

We have included a sample letter that the teen can personalize to explain to the Awana® Ministry Director, youth pastor, or their church leadership why he/she needs a qualified adult to check their Bible studies. Many teens will not need this letter because they have already built a relationship with a T&T™ or Trek® leader or director who is willing to continue working with the teen as they move into the next program. Even if the teen does need to find a mentor, they may personally know someone who can help, and a formal letter is not necessary – this would be especially true in smaller churches.

Whether the teen already has an adult who has agreed to work with them or needs to find one, we would suggest the teen let the Awana® Ministry Director, youth pastor, or pastor know that he/she will be working (or desires to work) in the Bible studies. We do not want the church leadership to be uninformed. Awana® should not be in competition with existing programs.

(Note: C-Track™ is not available for children in the younger clubs. Trek® and Journey™ books are Bible studies which can be done in a group but can also be done individually. Much of the teaching in the younger clubs is in addition to the handbooks whether that is in Large Group Time or in Small Group Time.)

What are the responsibilities of the leader/mentor?

The C-Track™ teen needs a leader who is not related to him/her. Again, this is for accountability and credibility with college scholarships. That adult can simply listen to the teens' verses and look over the Bible studies, making sure that the answers are correct.

Responsibilities:

1. The adult must know the basics of the Trek® or Journey™ program (depending on which books the teen is doing). Sometimes the adult has been through the program, so they have a good overview of what is happening. But other times, this is the first teen in the church who has worked in one of the youth ministries' Bible studies and no one in the church is familiar with the programs, the lessons, or what is required.

We would suggest that the adult download the Trek®/Journey™ Role books from the Awana® website and look at the Awana® Youth Ministries Web page to get an overview of the programs.

2. The adult must know the answers to the Bible study questions. An adult will not be able to check whether the teen's answers are right or wrong if they do not know what the right or wrong answers should be. We suggest that the adult purchase one of the leaders' guides or do the books himself.
3. The adult must listen to the memorized verses, check the answers to the Bible study, and make sure other requirements are completed.
4. The adult must meet regularly with the teen and give them time to show what they have done. (In other words, 45 seconds on the church steps after Sunday morning service will not do it.)
5. The adult should become a true mentor, regularly praying with the teen, and discussing what has been learned through the Bible studies. If the teen is not a leader in the younger club, the adult should encourage them to become one. If the teen does work as a student leader, the adult should occasionally ask how it is going and be interested in the teen's activities.
6. The adult needs to keep an exact record of the C-Track™ teen's accomplishments – this will be needed for the teen to be awarded their Citation and college scholarship. (A record sheet is provided in this e-book.)
7. The adult needs to let the Awana® secretary (or person who places the orders) know which awards the teen has earned so the necessary purchases can be made.

What are the teen's responsibilities?

1. Connect with an adult (as described in the previous sections)
2. Determine with the adult leader which Bible study they should be doing. The adult then arranges with the club secretary (or whoever does Awana® orders) to purchase that book.
3. Work through the Bible study, meeting the requirements for completion, as do those teens who are involved in an established Trek® and/or Journey™ program. The one exception would be the requirements to bring a friend to Trek® or Journey™. The substitute requirement is to bring a friend to youth group or church.
4. Attend the church's regular youth program. C-Track™ is not to be a substitution for taking part in the church's regularly scheduled youth activities.
5. Participate in AwanaGames™, Bible Quizzing and/or Summit if possible. (Many Trek® and/or Journey™ programs will allow teens to team up with their own teens for specials events.)
6. Serve as a student leader in the church's younger Awana® clubs.

(Note: Leaders or parents who wish to achieve their Citation can also do C-Track™.)

Curriculum Overview

Trek® Overview

This program challenges students to wrestle with the three most important questions they are asking in middle school:

- Who am I?
- Why am I here?
- Who is with me?

By allowing students to dive deep into the Scriptures and answer these questions for themselves we allow them to own their faith and discover what they believe.

If a church offers T&T™ through fifth grade and a middle school youth group for sixth, seventh, and eighth graders, teens will need to complete all three years of Trek® curriculum.

If a teen participated in T&T™ through sixth grade, they will only need complete two years of Trek® curriculum.

All teens must begin by completing the Trek® Check, entrance booklet each year as well as the Bible readings and summaries during the year.

Journey™ Overview

Journey™ is a four-year curriculum.

The teen must begin by completing the Faith Foundation booklet each year.

The Teen must complete the suggested Bible study each year.

A central requirement of the Journey™ curriculum is to read through the Old Testament. Each Bible study lists the Bible books assigned for that year. (The teen needs to record the date/dates they read the books and give their mentor the book's theme, author, date, key verse, and summary. The summaries are on the Awana® Colorado website: www.awanacolorado.org.

In the back of each Bible study you will find additional requirements, except for Disciples. It was inadvertently left out of Disciples. Therefore, you will need to check the Citation Matrix on the Colorado website under "Club Specific", click Journey™, and look down the page for the Citation Matrix.

Conclusion

C-Track™ is a great option for those teens who enjoy Awana® and appreciate the spiritual foundation provided through the program. We pray that these teens will find a willing adult who will walk with them as they continue through their books.

And what about the people introduced at the beginning of the e-book?

- Jana's Awana® Ministry Director listened to Jana explain C-Track™. He admitted that he knew Awana® had a program for high schoolers, but also admitted he knew little about it. He was willing to allow Jana to meet with the teens and said he was interested in seeing the material himself.
- The Andersons talked to the Awana® Ministry Director about their kids continuing in Awana®, but the Awana® Ministry Director was not interested. They talked to the youth pastor who in turn, explained his own scope and sequence. The Andersons did not have a problem with the youth pastor's curriculum: it was solid, and Bible based, but they still wanted their kids to achieve their Citations. They checked around and discovered (to their surprise) that there was another church in town that offered Trek® and welcomed the Anderson's children. They need to figure out what to do about Journey™, but at least their kids had a program to attend for another couple of years.
- Keith King's friend did agree to have the Trek® and Journey™ lessons taught on Sunday morning. He had been looking for a solid curriculum. For those teens in the classes who did not serve as student leaders and had no desire to do the individual work – they were still getting the lessons. The other teens came early on Wednesday nights and met with Keith to say their verses and have their Bible studies checked over before they went to their respective clubs to serve as student leaders. The teens were excited about the arrangement.
- The Collins family used the letter provided in this e-book as a guide for their own letter they wrote to the pastor. (The church did not have a youth pastor.) Because they had only been attending a few months (and Awana® was not meeting since it was summer), they felt they knew the pastor better than the Awana® Ministry Director or other leaders. The pastor did not seem interested in starting Awana® Youth Ministries, but he was willing for the church to order the books and awards for their children. He then contacted a former T&T™ boys' director who had to step down because of health reasons and asked if he would be willing to work with the Collins' sons. The man was not only willing, but excited to help, and get back into Awana®. The Collins' hoped that their own kids could get their friends interested and maybe the church would add Trek® and Journey™ before too long.
- Megan's parents had the youth pastor over for dinner and talked to him about Megan doing C-Track™. Much to Megan's surprise, he said he had a couple of other teens who had also mentioned it. He was thinking about having a small group meet on Friday nights just for those teens who were doing C-Track™.

C-Track™ does not work in every situation. We understand that there are teens who live in areas where there are not Trek® or Journey™ programs or attend churches that do not have Awana®. If their own church does not have the younger clubs, we encourage teens to contact other churches in the area that have Awana®. Even if they do not attend that church. They may find a leader who is willing to work with them. The connection is necessary

1. For accountability for achieving the Citation
2. For accountability to the colleges offering the scholarships
3. For access to ordering books and awards
4. To encourage and mentor the student

FAQs

1. My youth pastor said he would work with me, but we are confused about what I am supposed to do. Who can answer my questions?

Look at the list of requirements posted in this e-book. He should also read the Trek®/Journey™ Role Books (depending on what program you are completing). IF you do not find the answer there, contact your Awana® missionary.

2. We do have a Journey™ group at our church, but I do not really like going. I have basketball on the same night. Now I can do C-Track™, correct?

No. C-Track™ is not available to teens who have a Trek® or Journey™ program at their church. You need to participate in your church programs and the activities provided.

3. I would like to go to Summit as part of a team, but I am the only one doing C-Track™ at my church. So how can I do that?

Contact Journey™ groups in your area and ask if anyone is going to Summit or contact your missionary and ask if there is any group you could be part of, many Summit teams have C-Track participants.

4. I am working toward a college scholarship. How do I keep a record of what I am doing?

Your adult leader/mentor needs to keep these records and provide them to your church so that your church has an account of what you have accomplished. Your mentor may use the form provided in this book. Make sure your mentor signs it to authenticate it.

5. My friends also want to do C-Track™. Can we start a group?

You will need to ask the Awana® Ministry Director or youth pastor at your church for permission. Ask them to help you get organized.

6. I love Awana®. Ever since I was a little kid back in our old church in North Carolina, I have worked toward achieving my Citation. Dad was transferred and now we live in Ohio. The church here has the younger clubs, but they do their own youth program and say they do not want anyone working on Awana® Bible studies, because they want everyone focusing on the Bible studies from their own program. Even though my parents and I have both said this would not limit my participation in the church program, they still refuse to order the books for me. Can I do it anyhow?

You need to connect to a mentor outside your family. Is there another church in the area you can connect to? If so, then it is up to you and your parents to decide whether you continue since the church you are attending told you they did not want you doing an additional Bible study. That is your parents' call.

Dear _____,

(Pastor, Youth Director or Awana® Ministry Director)

Thank you for the opportunity to participate in the Awana® program at our church.

I have enjoyed the many benefits of weekly activities and growing spiritually as I have memorized God's Word and have learned how to apply His Word to my daily life.

I would like to continue in Awana® through an option called C-Track™, which is for kids like me who do not have a Trek® and/or Journey™ program at their church. Besides the continued Bible study, I am also aiming to earn my Citation which is the highest award one can earn in Awana®. In addition, numerous colleges offer scholarships to those teens who have earned their Timothy, Meritorious, or Citation Awards. The cost of college combined with the rising cost of living makes a scholarship very desirable.

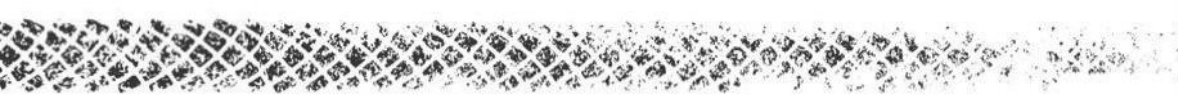

I do not intend for C-Track™ to take the place of our church youth program. I will still participate in the regular youth activities.

However, I need to request your help.

1. I will need to order the books and end-of-the-year awards through our church.
2. I must say my verses and have my Bible studies checked by someone at the church – an Awana® leader from one of the younger clubs or someone on the church staff. Would you be that person? Or could you suggest someone who could?

Thank you for your help with this, I appreciate you and all you do for the church.

Sincerely, _____
